

Medallion Signature Guarantee

Unfortunately, a consular officer cannot perform a Medallion Signature Guarantee, which is a special type of signature acknowledgement sometimes required for the exchange of securities. A Medallion Signature Guarantee can only be obtained from a participant in one of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) approved programs, such as a commercial bank, brokerage firm, credit union or savings and loans institutions that are members of the Medallion Stamp Program. The Medallion Program is not a notarization. For further information on the Securities and Exchange Commission's Medallion Program, please visit: <http://www.sec.gov/answers/sigguar.htm>.

The Embassy does not have a list of Medallion Program member institutions. Please contact your financial institution for guidance on this matter.
